WARD KEITH HARRIS

The first from Kittery to be lost in action. Son of Rev. and Mrs. C. Basil Harris of the Point. Born January 10, 1922, at Fort Wayne, Indiana. Came to Kittery with his parents when his father accepted a call to the First Christian Church in 1929. Mitchell School. Traip 1940; graduating with honors in scholarship, athletics, and debating.

He was a second year student at Elon College, North Carolina, when he enlisted for Naval Aviation training. To Olatha, Kansas, and Corpus Christi, Texas, for fighter plane training. Graduated at the latter with commission as Second Lieutenant. To Jacksonville, where he was transferred to bombers. To Chicago for bomber run training. Then Santa Barbara and El Centro, California. Returned to Santa Barbara and to the Pacific war zone on November 16, 1943. About that time he was promoted to First Lieutenant.

The names of the ships and stations where he served, and much other information, are incomplete at local sources because a large number of letters which he undoubtedly mailed home were not received. However, it is known he did reconnaissance flying over Guadalcanal, was in the Solomons invasion, and stationed in New Britain.

On February 22, 1944, he was in action against enemy shipping at Rabaul, New Britain. At that time, with the national emergency at its height, the torpedo bombers were being sent on missions at the extreme range of their fuel. Shortly after this rules were changed and the distances flown were shortened. Another pilot reported that enemy smashed off completely the right wing of Harris' plane and it crashed into the sea so fast he had no time to jump.

Secretary of the Navy, James V. Forrestal, gave the following citation: "For courageous and heroic conduct as a pilot in a marine torpedo bombing squadron 143 in aerial combat against enemy Japanese forces in the Solomon Island and New Britain areas from January 17 to February 22, 1944. In the face of intense antiaircraft and aerial opposition under hazardous conditions, Lieutenant Harris participated in six bombing and strafing attacks at extreme distances against enemy shipping and land installations. His expert airmanship and courageous devotion to duty contributed materially to the successful completion of these missions and were in keeping with the highest tradition of the United States naval service."

Captain H. W. Hise wrote Rev. and Mrs. Harris: "Keith was very popular with all of us. He was an excellent pilot, absolutely fearless and conducted himself on all his combat missions with exceptional courage and high devotion to duty. We all miss him very much."

Foreword

Between these covers lies the heart of Kittery. Here is that generation which covered the world at the request of a government which hated aggression against itself and against the essential rights of human beings. In addition to those listed here there were hundreds more who labored to supply the tools with which these service people achieved success. The one lacking the other would have been helpless. Thus has Kittery done, as she has always done since the first fishermen came to Brave Boat Harbor.

As the last pages go through the bindery it is noted that on the page headed by Joseph A. Langton the biography of his brother John has been placed beside the picture of Robert Hatton; and the paragraph for the latter has been given to John.

Every effort has been made to have the recorded facts correct and accurately spelled. In many cases it was necessary to place entire dependence upon handwriting that was not easy to read, or spelling via telephone.

It will be noted that the tone of the pictures varies considerably. This is, to a large extent, caused by the fact that the available photographs ran all the way from those specially made for reproduction to snapshots not very well focused. The two photo-engravers -- John Marshall of the Portland Engraving Company and Byron Page of Dover, N. H. -- have done their expert best with the material at hand.

This is the first time in the history of Kittery that a complete book has been assembled and printed and bound within the town. The paper is Polar Superfine, 133 pounds to the ream, manufactured by the Oxford Paper Company in Maine. It is a finish and grade that is extremely difficult to obtain at present. The bulk of that which is used here, along with the inks and the covers, came from the C. H. Robinson Company of Portland.

The compiler wishes to acknowledge deep appreciation for the fine co-operation of those who supplied the photographs and data.

Special thanks go to the staff of the Town Office, which permitted use of the records there. Also to Mrs. Merle Mitchell, who gave much time and effort to gathering essential items. Also to Miss Jean Snodgrass of Stimson Street and Miss Barbara Tilton of Tilton Avenue, who both went out of their way to collect pictures in their areas.

Robert Hill aided much by lending a reference book showing the correct spelling of Navy ratings.

Other helpers were Kittery Electric Light Company, and Walker's Variety Store, which were made available as depots for the leaving of pictures. Also gratitude is expressed to the memory of Mrs. W. H. Tobey, of the Point, who allowed her store to be used for the same purpose.

The mechanical production staff was composed of James Lacourse, linotype operator and makeup man, and Otto Benson, pressman.

Thus is completed a work that began soon after Pearl Harbor. It presents, for the first time, a permanent record, with pictures, of what the sons and daughters of Maine's first town have done in any war. Many towns did less; very few have done more; none are prouder of the heritage thus given to coming generations.

Kittery, Maine; December 22, 1947
